Windows on Our World: Connecting Our Global Community through Creative Expression

Alan Wong

May 26, 2020

In a time when most of us are as physically disconnected as we've ever been, there is still an opportunity for deep connection. So, let's embrace this opportunity to connect across cultures and continents! Join with hundreds from around the globe as we share windows into our own worlds, collaborate creatively, and celebrate our unique experiences. We will use the poetic power of writing to explore where we are coming from individually and weave a vision of our collective future. No writing experience necessary.
